RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change and opposed by most people concerned with climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program; to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. HARD AS IT IS TO BELIEVE WITH THIS WINTER'S RECORD COLD AND SNOW EARTH'S CLIMATE IS STILL WARMING TOO RAPIDLY FOR THE LONG TERM SURVIVAL OF THE hUMAN rACE.

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

As a taxpayer I object to the subsidies to big industry. Time to enforce the Straightforward requirements in federal law — that the royalty on surface mined coal is 12.5 percent and the royalty on underground mine coal is 8 percent. These laws have been evaded by how companies market federal coal, which accounts for about 40 percent of total U.S. production. Instead of assessing the royalty on the price paid by the final customers, in most cases utility power plants, royalties are often assessed based on the sales price at the mine-mouth. That initial sales price is often far less than the actual market price reached as coal is moved along by brokers which are often subsidiaries and affiliates of the big parent coal companies. Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground.

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

Does the Department of the Interior "believe" in the scientific consensus on climate change? In its capacity to destroy earthly life as we know it? Does Interior establish policy to be compatible with the president's announced intention regarding climate change? If the answer is "Yes" to both questions, the Department absolutely must change its announced intention to permit the continuation of the federal coal leasing program even if on a new, cost-adjusted basis. Such a policy is in direct conflict with the best scientific opinion and with administration carbon-emission reduction policy. Interior must immediately end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in its power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground and thereby protect the long-term viability of the United States and its citizenry.

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

I grew up in southern West Virginia. I've seen what dependency on coal mining has done to my beautiful home state, and I know what it does to the people who live with it. I'm a cancer survivor myself, even though I left for good when I was 23. Back home in Kanawha County, my brother's back yard is a narrow patch of rock bordering on an unreclaimed strip mine. They drink their well water anyway, because there is no alternative water source. I can't say I don't know what coal mining does, and because I know, I act. We as a society are now shifting to alternatives to coal, and more carbon-neutral technologies are developing all the time. I don't know if all the effort so many are putting in is going to be enough, soon enough, to save our agriculture, our forests, our fisheries, our way of life--but I'm giving this shift away from fossil fuels the best push I can. The U.S. is allowing coal to be mined on leased public lands and shipped away, often out of the country, for next to no compensation. The lands are stripped, ground water is contaminated, the shipping poses unreasonable risks to farmers, ranchers, tribes and small towns, whose lands are cut through by rail links--and new infrastructure building can devastate parts of the landscape hundreds of miles away from the mining areas themselves. The demand to construct new export terminals threatens to put water quality at risk in Puget Sound, the mouth of the Columbia and elsewhere. And the compensation to those affected, and to the taxpayers is effectively nothing. This has been going on for a very long time. I am calling on you to stop it. This destructive behavior must end. Boilerplate follows; I agree with it. Thank you for reading my comments. I am a U.S. Presidential Scholar (WV, 1975) and a scientist. Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground.

Sincerely,

You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. The use of coal in devices that burn it for one reason or another, converts oxygen to carbon dioxide, as we all well know. This is the gas, one way or another, accumulated over time, converts the beautiful garden that we call Earth, into the kind of planet that we now call Mars! It doesn't happen in a lifetime, but over several thousand or million years, through all its direct and indirect effects, it creates the type of environment that we see now on Mars! Why can't we see in the future and give priority to ending a process that ultimately is a disaster to our planet! Nicholas B. Louis (www.nlouis.com) 2/23/2015

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground.

Sincerely,

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

Raising the rates of the federal coal leasing program is not enough. Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. The most recent data (see Nature 2015) suggests that to stop runaway climate change 90 percent of American coal reserves must remain in the ground. Thus to achieve the President's stated goal you must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground.
