RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

I am a bioengineer and expert witness who has testified in US courts, including the ITC, having been approved through a Daubert hearing in each instant. Coal has a high carbon content which, if burnt, yields large volumes of greenhouse gases, primarily CO₂. These gases act as a 'one way valve' for incident radiant energy from the sun, increasing the heat trapping effects of the earth's atmosphere. It is irresponsible to unleash these stores of carbon in the form of coal from public lands. The economic advantage is far outweighed by the economic costs and human suffering arising from the climatic shifts resulting from the rising CO₂ levels in the earth's atmosphere. Short term profit by private companies from coal mining and use are minuscule compared with the social and recovery costs of storm events caused by the climatic energy shifts associated with added insulation of yet more atmospheric CO₂. It is imperative that coal stays in the ground; a locked carbon store. I urge you to neither sell nor give away any more coal that is under government control under any circumstances.

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is senseless... it has a direct negative impact on the health of people near the area of combustion and is a terrible source of greenhouse gas driving worldwide climate change. If we are going to 'invest' in international energy production, we should be assisting countries to use more sustainable sources of energy.

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

I am an attorney in Spokane, Washington. Every day I see more instances in which the government is giving away public resources to private corporations. When I was in law school I was taught that the role of government was to protect the interest of the public. Things have really changed over the past thirty years. Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. Why is it that the Interior Department can simply give away public resources to private corporations? Doesn't the government have a fiduciary duty to taxpayers?

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. Climate change is real! You cannot deny the weather has changed drastically even in the past five years. That's all on us. We need to make a change. It's about time people take it seriously and seek cleaner ways to power our homes.

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

Mercury from coal is making our nation's fish poisonous to our pregnant women. And feeding our global energy needs with coal is a sure road to a dangerous dystopian environmental future on many levels, climate change just being one of them. We cannot afford to destroy our children's long-term future for the sake of short term expediency. Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground.

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's and world citizens' stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. Giving away taxpayer money to massive corporations has long been a practice in America, and here it is in direct opposition to the well being of all US citizens. Climate change is the biggest threat that the human species is current facing (we'll see if we ever get to face more challenges), and it is imperative that we take every action to halt its progress. This includes not burning any more fossil fuels and aggressively investing clean technologies, not lining the pockets of high ranking corporate officials. Another related issue is that of income inequality. Because wealth is so abhorrently concentrated into the 1%, and because the US political system has been a bed of corruption for a number of decades, the government increasingly listens to the minority of Americans who possess the vast majority of wealth. If wealth were more evenly distributed (by livable wages and increasing corporate taxes, and relentlessly processing those who dodge billions in taxes each year), then this issue would become lesser, although still present, imminent, and potentially catastrophic and human-ending. You must do everything in your power to act on these issues in the ways indicated to attempt to save the continued existence of the entire human population, including yourselves and your corporate backers.

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. Doing a monster redesign of a population lined highway through the Trinity Alps and the coastal range in California and dredging a port in Eureka to deep water depths all with tax dollars, so that coal can be sold and shipped to China, is wrong, dangerous to health and obvious. The Kochs are spending a good percentage of the $889 M on northern California legislators. Corrupt!!! And where do they keep all those tax free dollars? Help!

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. The lands owned by the American people are being decimated by oil and gas exploration, fracking, methane leakage, spills, water and air pollution and habitat destruction. The existing leasing programs put large profits for few over the well-being of many. This disparity undercuts American values and promotes poverty.

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. All Americans own that coal and the only thing most of us get from it is dirty air, polluted land, blown off mountain tops, piles of coal ash, dead or dying miners, acid filled creeks and rivers, dead animals, massive tree loss, torn up and polluted soil -- hardly seems a fair exchange. I live in Indiana and know what they will tell you about coal from their point of view. Now they passed a law which makes it harder for those who want to use solar and wind power to reduce dependency on coal to afford it. WRONG!

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. I understand that the goal of public land management is to balance different uses of the land. However, because of the damage that burning coal causes to all life on the planet, you should remove this use from your management plans. The interests of energy companies are irrelevant compared to the harm the human race -- including you and your descendants -- will suffer from unchecked global warming.
